

Quite simply Frette sheets are essential for the well-lived life. Once you have slept on them, you will never go back to ordinary linen. Clients become addicted to their un-matched feel and sophisticated colour palette.

René Lalique's neo-classical Bacchantes vase is as beautiful today as it was when it first came out of his glassworks in 1927, showing the master sculptor at his best.

Debbie Cavit of CAVIT & CO shares her passion for an expertly curated collection of the WORLD'S BEST furniture, tableware and lighting.

American artist Michael Aram's beaten metal pieces have a line and a form which can only be achieved with dedicated hand-working – no two pieces are the same. Both his classical and contemporary lines sit beautifully in a modern or traditional interior.

Debbie Cavit doesn't have much truck with instant fashions or here-today-gone-tomorrow trends in her exclusive niche of the interiors market. Instead, her customers demand luxury, elegance and fine quality design that would last their lifetime – and beyond. Her carefully curated collections of furniture, lighting, bed linen and accessories include long-loved brands such as Frette, Lalique, Baker, de Bournais, McGuire and newer classics such as Verellen, Baxter, Kevin Reilly lighting and Ralph Lauren Home from France, Belgium, England, Italy and America.

When she and her team of interior designers work with clients to furnish their homes, she commissions a covetable mix of hand-crafted period pieces to work with modern-as-tomorrow leather sofas. Her love of what she calls "soulful" decorating means that some rooms may take months, even years, to build up a layered patina. Lighting is hand-made, tables and dressers are finished with burnished tableware from William Yeoward and Michael Aram or cloisonné vases from Robert Kuo. And no bed is complete without the luxury of Frette linen.

She shares her favourite finds.

Los Angeles-based Chinese artisan Robert Kuo combines traditional techniques with contemporary design: he is said to have 'opened up' Han and Ming sensibilities to Art Deco and Art Nouveau influences. Timeless, elegant, tasteful.

Barbara Barry's classic, timeless, fluid designs have always appealed to a sophisticated collector. Her goal – to inspire a life of beauty with a focus on home as a sanctuary for peaceful living – fits perfectly with Cavit's. Simple, gracious furniture with a the patina that only fine traditional design and manufacturing excellence can bring.

One of America's premier furniture brands, Baker, has attracted a stable of world-class designers. Award winning interior designer Thomas Pheasant is known for his skilful ability to mix his own modern pieces with antiques, mastering the neutral palette. His signature love of simplicity, classicism and refinement sits perfectly with Cavit's philosophy of modern, calm elegance that bridges past and present.

British designer Kevin Reilly's lights have an Arts and Crafts simplicity and purity of line. Like the artisans before him, Reilly's elegant pieces are meticulously handmade in steel or iron. He has patented electrified wax candles that are magical and inspired, and totally out of the ordinary.

Because Italian furniture-maker Baxter has always focussed on finest leather, their workmanship and contemporary luxury is kept constantly fresh and updated. Master leatherworkers and cabinet-makers produce colours and finishes exclusive to Baxter, shifting this formerly very British look into a sophisticated made-in-Italy sensibility – tradition blended with fresh creativity.

Period furniture from French company de Bournais is the best of master craftsmanship, featuring marquetry, parquetry or ormulu in solid wood. These are based on historical styles, complete with antique paper on the drawer interiors. I love to help clients customize a piece for a traditional interior, or as a stand-our statement in a modern house.
