DESIGN & DECOR

What's new for 2011 in the world of style and design? World hit the pavements to see what we could find.

What we discovered was something we'd had hunch about all along: that it no longer takes a year or more for the latest ideas flowing from the studios of the world's leading designers and brands to reach these shores. Thanks to the work of retailers we highlight below, what is available today in Europe and other international design hubs is available here – now. And before we completed our tour we uncovered a different way of looking at the art market; a perfect conclusion to a review of contemporary decor where fine art is often the finishing touch.

Cavit & Co

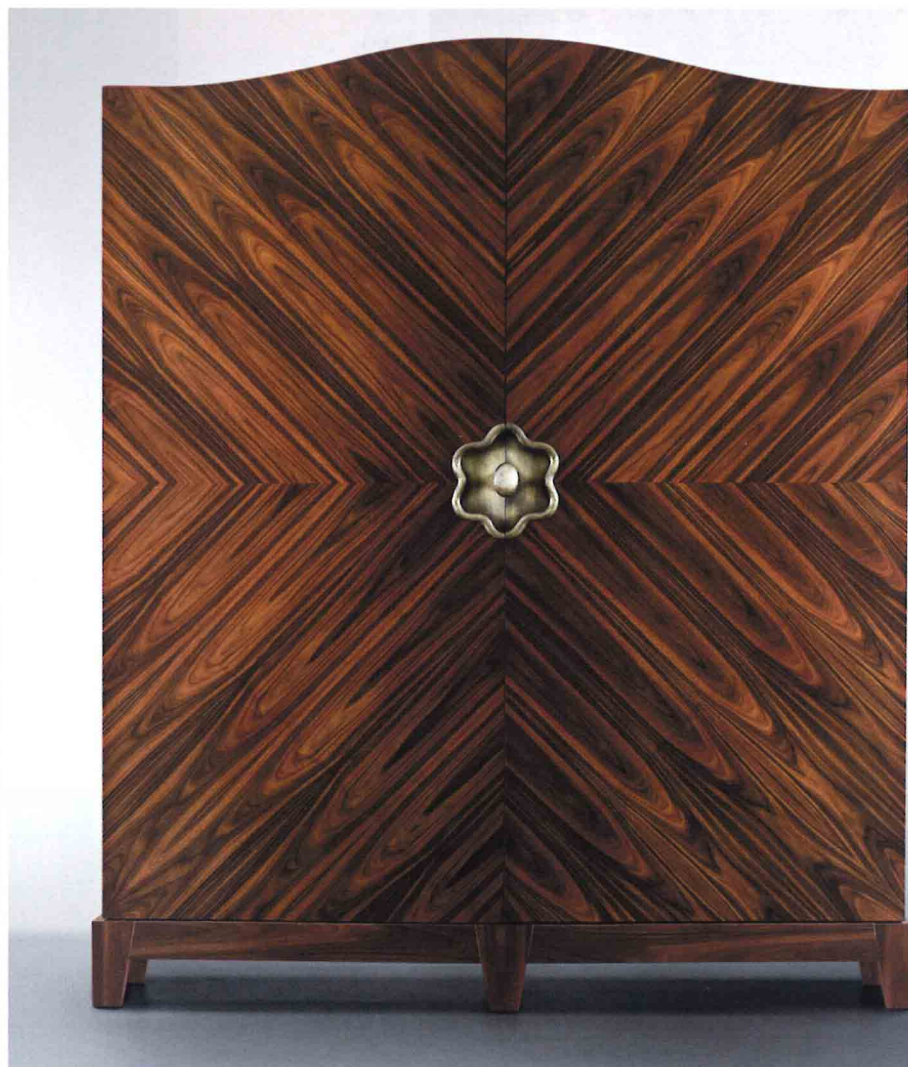

Celebrating its 20th anniversary this year, Cavit & Co continues to set the standard for fine home furnishings, gifts and accessories. After another of her annual sojourns to Paris earlier this year for the Paris Furniture Show, founder Debbie Cavit once again brings her customers the very latest from world-renowned brands like Ralph Lauren Home, Baker, Baxter, Lalique, Frette bed linen and now Promemoria, the Italian brand founded on the banks of Lake Como with showrooms today in Milan, Paris, London and Moscow.

With shops in Parnell and Arrowtown, Cavit & Co provides New Zealanders with furniture, lighting, textiles and home accessories unmatched in craftsmanship and style. Here, the sophistication of Ralph Lauren Home sits in the showroom beside the fine leather workmanship from Baxter, design innovations from Baker, stunning Lalique crystal and heavenly bedding by Frette. "We have always gone for the very best," Debbie told World. Though she's spent 20 years seeking out the very best, it took us a mere lunch-hour inspection of the Parnell Road shop to appreciate how right she is.
